Re: Preserving the Open Internet, GN Docket No. 09-191

Dear Ms. Dortch:

This morning, the undersigned spoke by telephone with Sharon Gillett, Chief, Wireline Competition Bureau. I advised her that Level 3 had accepted Comcast's offer to have the companies' respective engineers meet and discuss the specifics of Level 3's new proposal for the exchange of the companies' traffic. On Tuesday, the companies' engineers will meet in Chicago, so that Comcast can better understand the technical implications of Level 3's proposal, and its long-term cost implications for Comcast's network and our customers. Comcast has devoted a team of engineers full-time to that effort for the rest of this week.

Please let me know if you have further questions.

Sincerely,

/s/ Lynn R. Charytan
